

Salvia coccinea
Scarlet Sage

A fragrant native of the southeast with bright red flowers from spring into early winter; self sows easily. Attractive to hummingbirds and butterflies. Plant in full sun in soil with good drainage. Drought tolerant, but lack of water may result in fewer flowers.

Height: 2' – 3'